We notice little boys hanging on to the trains as they pull out of town. This is all right until some day some little boy will come up minus a leg or arm, then it will be all wrong.

We understand that Bert and John Furman had an encounter with some kind of a wild Thomas cat on the road east of town Tuesday and but for the high wind they'd have got him sure.

Three cars of sheep were shipped from this station Tuesday. Kendrick Bros., E. E. Horner and S. M. Trussell made up the shipment which was held back a day or two on account of the non-arrival of the stock inspector.

Miss Mangan of Alliance was in town three days the first of the week with a nice stock of millinery goods. Our ladies appreciate the convenience of having goods brought to them, thus saving them a trip to other towns at a distance.

Eight troops of Ft. Robinson soldiers arrived in town Sunday afternoon and went into camp just east of town on F. Furman's meadow. They made quite a military display and were quiet and well disciplined. With teamsters, muledrivers and guards they numbered about 600. They are on their way to Ft. Riley, Kan.

We have a word to add to the remarks of the Hemingford correspondent regarding trainmen holding railroad crossings to the inconvenience of the traveling public. This inconvenience is very frequently experienced at this place, but it is almost unbearable when a funeral procession is barred from crossing, horses prancing, restless and uneasy, people living many miles distant anxious to get on, that too at a crossing one half mile from the depot and for no other reason than to make a run for the hills south of town.

We're glad to welcome Nelson Richey, formerly a Marsland boy but now of Ellensburg, Wash., to the list of HERALD readers. This was no doubt brought about by a desire to keep in touch with news from the home country. There have been many changes since you left us. Your sweetheart got married, Nelse, and lives in a "gilded cage." Your old associates are scattered far and wide, but if you ever return—Enoch Arden like—and peep in at the window of Old Marsland, you will no doubt find "some few remaining to remind you of the past."

CANTON.

Arthur Bass and Mrs. W. A. Randall, his sister, were trading in Marsland the first of the week.

The potato crop of this part of the county is yielding a heavy crop this season and the quality was never better.

The threshing machine of Clark Olds & Son of Hemingford was in this vicinity this week, grain turning out a good quantity and of a good quality.

Miss Myrtle Broshar was in the Nicourt school district this week to have her school put off another week, as she was not quite ready for the undertaking at present.

Carry Thompson left Saturday morning over the B. & M. for Grand Island where he will enter college for the next twelve months. We think Carry has taken the right course and wish him success.

Mr. and Mrs. Wagoner, who have been visiting with their daughter, Mrs. Broshar and family, for three weeks left Sunday morning for their home at Paris, Ill. Mrs. Broshar accompanied them as far as Lincoln, after which she will make a week or ten days' visit at Omaha.
